

The Telegraph

calcutta, india

| Friday , December 25 , 2015 |

Gifts from 2015

The Newtown School, the city's first school to be registered with the Indian Green Building Council, started on April 16. Designed by Abin Design Studio, the outer walls of the buildings have 13 characters — both alphabet and numerals — embossed, making the twin structures stand out from afar. The school follows the CBSE curriculum and has state-of-the-art labs for subjects as diverse as robotics, mathematics and English.